

Ready New York for Business Audio Conference

Business Continuity Additional Resources

- New York City OEM: The agency is responsible for oversight and development of the City's emergency management plans. OEM regularly tests plans by conducting drills and exercises, and responds to emergencies to ensure that other agencies not only follow these plans, but to foster communication amongst the responding agencies. Please visit the agency's website:
www.nyc.gov/oem
- Ready New York for Business: contains practical and actionable advice to help businesses protect their employees and enhance a company's ability to recover from financial loss resulting from business interruption or damage to facilities and inventory. Download a copy by clicking the link below:
http://nyc.gov/html/oem/html/ready/biz_guide.shtml
- CEAS (Corporate Emergency Access System): CEAS authorizes essential employees to access restricted areas following an emergency. CEAS-credentialed employees can work to shut down or sustain core business functions until normal entry is restored. CEAS is the only program recognized by the NYPD and OEM that allows emergency access to businesses. To enroll in CEAS and/or access a series of frequently asked questions please follow the links below:
http://www.nyc.gov/html/oem/html/businesses/businesses_ceas.shtml or <http://www.ceas.com/>
- CorpNet (emergency notifications): CorpNet aims to provide business partners with current, accurate information about emergencies to enhance awareness and aid decision making should their businesses be affected. If you have a legitimate business e-mail address (no web mail or personal ISP accounts, i.e. AOL, hotmail, Gmail, Verizon) you can enroll in the CorpNet program. You may also contact the Brookdale Center for Healthy Aging and Longevity to schedule a site visit at (212) 481-5329 so that we may register you for CorpNet and/or other emergency notification and alert networks. For more information about CorpNet follow the link below:
http://www.nyc.gov/html/oem/html/businesses/businesses_corpnet.shtml
- Emergency Planning Worksheets from Ready.gov (pdf): Ready Business provides practical steps and easy-to-use templates to help you plan for your company's future. The worksheets outline commonsense measures business owners and managers can take to start getting ready.
<http://www.ready.gov/business/downloads/sampleplan.pdf>
- Sign up for monthly Business Continuity updates from the Public/Private Initiatives Unit of the New York City Office of Emergency Management. For more information, please contact the office at publicprivate@OEM.nyc.gov.